

I oppose loosening the rules designed to promote and protect diversity of media ownership. These rules were adopted to ensure that the public would receive a diverse range of viewpoints from the media, and not simply the opinions of a handful of media conglomerates.

You need to reinstitute the Fairness Doctrine that you abrogated in 1987 at the prodding of Ronald Reagan. As you know this required media channels to counterbalance extreme right-wing points of view with liberal progressive points of view and afford each point of view equal time on any media licensed by the FCC. The abolition of the Fairness Doctrine has led to a takeover of the media by right-wing political propagandists who present 24 hour around the clock espousment of their agendas.
